

I forgot to say I object to Ms Gorman 2022 Poetry entry

1 message

---

Dr John WorldPeace <drjohnworldpeacejd@gmail.com>

Sat, May 7, 2022 at 8:27
AM

To: pulitzer@pulitzer.org

Distribution to Majorie Moore, Administrator Pulitzer Prizes
and all the members of the board

Sorry forgot to specifically mention that some of the poems Ms Gorman published in her books "The Hill we climb and poems" and "Call Us what we carry" were self-published with Amazon.com in her first poem book "The One for whom Food is not enough" in 2015 or 2017 and I therefore object to her 2020 Pulitzer Poetry entry.

I think the Pulitzer rules are your poems for the 2020 Pulitzer Poetry Prize have to be first published January to first of October 2021.

That sort of makes sense of all the manipulations between The Hill we Climb and Poems and Call Us What we Carry. in the last 6 months.

And I see now this is what has been bugging me about her for so long. She is not honest,

I formally object to her books The Hill we climb and poems and We are what we Carry (which ever one was officially submitted for the 2020 Pulitzer Poetry Prize) as being ineligible for the 2020 Pulitzer Poetry Prize.

I realize this will probably crash her career but she is a big girl now. Time to play by adult rules.

WorldPeace